Communications. GRANADA.

A Glimpse of Spain. To the Editor of The Ypsilantian: Breakfast bugle call came at 4:15 Thurs day morning, the 19th, to give us an early start for our long journey of 230 miles to Granada. It was worth the early start, the long journey and the late return—we were out from Gibraltar over twenty hours. The Andalusian railway in the hands of an enterprising American would be made one of the most attractive scenic routes of the world. We started out from Algeciras with the foothills of the Andalusian range to our left and the beautiful bay of Gibraltar to our right, with the great, massive rock-lion lying quietly in the background This relative location continues for a long time as we round the head of the bay. Gradually the train works its way up the hills and along the upper valleys until we find ourselves in the midst of jagged peaks, sheer cliffs, deep ravines and dark gorges, with an occasional deep canyon cut through the solid rock by some great cataclysm of nature and worn to a polish by ages of foaming, rushing waters. The Rockies are more stupendously and sublimely awful; the Alps more picturesquely and inspiringly beautiful; but no place could more completely mingle the sublimity of the works of God with the quiet peacefulness of artistic human industry. We first passed through miles of thick groves of the cork tree, with hedges of cactus and century plant marking off boundaries. Then came miles upon miles of olive orchards as the valleys became more productive. Among these vast orchards, and increasingly beyond them in the richer, better-watered valleys, were groves of orange and lemon just coming to maturity, and plum, apricot, peach and pear in full bloom, and broad, beautiful green fields of crops well started or still under the hands of large gangs of cultivators. The cultivated areas reached from the railroad's right of way, fringed with every color and description of wild flowers, clear up to the base of the precipitous ledges that rose hundreds and sometimes thousands of feet above our heads. In the midst of every olive orchard, high up on the hill, was the glistening white house of the olive press, and not far away the buildings of the keeper, and now and then the village, all in glistening, dazzling white. An occasional old arched wall marked a civilization reaching back perhaps to Roman occupation, and old ruins certainly to Moorish conquest, and quaint old monasteries with the surrounding wall to keep and so every year there is a lively scrap as out the world, the flesh and the devil (and to the amount of work to levy. Those who sometimes shutting in a good deal of the by an excess of work and contribution of same article) gave evidence of the survival money have placed their highway in good of mediaeval ideas of religion and lifeorder, object to being taxed more than but all exceedingly, fascinatingly inter-

These rich, fertile valleys, tilled to the edge of every cliff and to the very foot of every towering ledge and to the close margin of every ravine, are made to bring forth their abundance under the most primitive methods of agriculture. For miles no wheeled vehicle was seen, donhave preferred a definite amount for their keys bearing the burdens upon their backs. Then came the cart with tandem team of donkeys or cattle. On one plantation was seen twelve ox teams, each hitched to its crooked stick, which served as a plow, following one after another in the same furmelter and converter plant.

The mine is located on the side of a we saved her life with Dr. King's New took all the glory out of our victory over the Spaniard at Manila and Santiago. The Indian would call Spain "The-sick-old-woman-with-her eyes shut." The fields are cultivated by serfs who work for a pittance—a shilling a day being good wages. With the facilities at hand they do marvelously good work. One crop runs right up to another on a line rarely at right angles with anything—the plots lying in circles, ellipses, triangles, diamonds, etc. These curved and crossing lines produce, with the vari-colored vegetation, pretty and very artistic effects.

> Granada, lying against the foothills of the glorious snow-mantled Sierra Nevadas, which lift their magnificent, shining summenced to take your remedy I had been mits above her, is one of the most interesting cities of Spain. Here are indubitof two of the best physicians in Michigan able remains of the Moorish occupation at without receiving any help. You can im- least a thousand years old. Here is the old cathedral under whose roof rests the Female Tonic when I tell you that I have dust of Ferdinand and Isabella, Philip I gained forty pounds and am well—a thing and Joan, whose sarcophagi it was our privilege to look upon. Here also is the world-famed Alhambra, many of its old Moorish walls, able to enclose a garrison of 40,000 soldiers and sustain them in a long siege, still standing; its palace, built by Charles V, the aspirer to Cæsar's seat in the mythic Holy Roman Empire, with the purpose of eclipsing the glory even of Solomon's temple, roofless but still intact in all its architectural beauty of outer walls; its courts and walls, some restored, some shattered, some so well preserved as to need no restoration, standing still in the gaudy, elaborate, barbaric beauty of the barbaric taste that gave them being; its broad parks and green, deep woodsstately, magnificent elms, planted by the hand of the Duke of Wellington; its towers, ruined walls, old history and older traditions, and horrible tragedies—but enough -read your Irving, as I shall read mine again with redoubled interest, and find it a new source of fantastic dreams.

The Spaniard did not receive us cordially. He does not love the Americans. He looked at us in the main with superior scorn-although there were occasional pleasant greetings. Depredations of a previous tourist party in the Alhambra proved a decided embarrassment to us, although no vandalism was committed within the historic enclosure by any of our company. The military character of the government is apparent everywhere. An armed guard, varying in size according to the size of the village or city, patrols the streets at every station. In Granada, mounted, fully armed and caparisoned soldiers were riding about, their heavy guns and swords clanging and rattling, and upon every street corner stood one or more soldlers, with carbine in hand and sword swinging at side. The extremes of wealth and poverty were plainly visible. The 'gentlemen" even were some of the poor, frayed and greasy remnants of some proud family. A cloak or toga is the badge of gentility, and while some of these were of the richest fabrics, and draped gracefully over the shoulder to show the bright green, crimson, purple or other colored lining of satin or velvet, many of them were faded and weather stained, threadbare and tattered, grimy and greasy, but were nevertheless worn with an air of conscious digty and superiority that was pathetic if ot ridiculous. Here as in Madeira, the xceptionally fine climate, the luxuriant oil, the splendid mountain streams, afrding perfect systems of irrigation, and l other natural advantages are made to work the profit of a few, while the hard

LESSON II, SECOND QUARTER, INTER-NATIONAL SERIES, APRIL 12.

Text of the Lesson, I Cor. xv, 20, 21, 50-58-Memory Verses, 55-58-Golden Text, I Cor. xv, 20 - Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1903, by American Press Association.] 20. But now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them

We have today a great and glorious chapter truly, beginning with the gospel by which we are-saved and ending with the complete subjugation of all things unto Him who died for our sins and was buried and rose again the third employed at Vought & Rogers' Home day, according to the Scriptures (verses 3, 4). The writer of this epistle, with whom we have recently been journeying so much, seemed to know nothing but Christ crucified, Christ risen and ascended and Christ returning to reign. It would be well if there were many like him. In this chapter he gives special prominence to the resurrection, proving that the life and death of Christ would have availed us nothing if He had not risen; that apart from this great fact there is no gospel to preach, no ground for faith, no salvation; but, Christ being risen, all is well with those who trust in Him, and as He is in His risen body so shall we be (Phil. iii, 21; I John iii, 2).

21. For as in Adam all die, even so in thrist shall all be made alive. By one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin, and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned. For as by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of One shall many be made righteous (Rom. v, 12, 19). All are in Adam without exception, and therefore all are sinners and dead in trespasses and sins (Eph. ii, 1). All who, being convinced of sin, have accepted Christ are in Christ, and He is wisdom, righteousness, sanctification, redemption and life eternal to all who truly receive Him (I Cor. i, 30; I John v, 12).

50. Now, this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit in-

The kingdom of God will be that condition of affairs on earth when the will of God shall be done on earth as it is done in heaven (Matt. vi, 10), or, as in verse 28 of our chapter, when the Son, having (during the thousand years, Rev. xx) subdued all things unto Himself and cast Satan and all his followers into the lake of fire, God shall be all in all. In order to enjoy that kingdom and its glory, these present mor tal bodies of flesh and blood must be changed and be made like His resurrection body of flesh and bones (Luke xxiv, 39). They will be as real and tangible as His resurrection body, but no longer subject to the powers and circumstances which control our mortal bodies (Luke xxiv, 31; John xx, 19). 51, 52. Behold, I shew you a mystery. We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed in a moment. * * *

In I Thess. iv, 16-18, this is more fully set forth and so simply and clearly that only those who do not wish to can fail to see it. Our Lord Himself referred to it in these words: "He that pelieveth in Me, though he die, yet nall he live, and whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die" (John xi, 25, 26). The natural man can never see nor inherit the kingdom of God unless he is born from above, born the second time, and all who, being born again, belong to the kingdom must in one of two ways obtain a body fit for the kingdom-the body must die and rise from the dead at His coming or be in a moment changed without dying, as were the bodies of Enoch and Elijah.

saying that is written, Death is swallowed

Corruptible and mortal are terms referring to our present bodies; incorruptible and immortal describe the bodies that shall be ours at His coming, when we shall be like Him. This quotation from Isa. xxv, 8, 9, reminds us that when the kingdom comes and the glorified church is with Christ reigning over it (Rev. v, 9, 10), Israel shall have her place, with her rebuke taken away from off all the earth, for recover from them without taking any pre- she shall see Him coming in His glory. 55-57. O death, where is thy sting? C grave, where is thy victory? The sting of death is sin, and the strength of sin is the law. But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. In Hos. xiii, 14, from which part of For sale by Smith Bros.' City | these words, I often say that I am glad that God hates death and the grave and will destroy both and will never alter His purpose about it. While in the case of the believer the curse of death is changed to a blessing and brings only gain and the very far better (Phil. i, 21, 23), yet the fact stands that death is an enemy, and to talk of found one of the worst of enemies with > 58. Therefore, my beloved brethren, be re steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, for as much in the Lord.

The glories of the resurrection, the kingdom, the new earth, concerning which Paul said Rom. viii, 17, 18; II Cor. iv, 17, 18, and many such words nay well encourage us to be steadfast our bodies, which is truly a reasonable thing, since He has bought us with a ever disappointed, because it cures. Farming

Over the semi-arid region, where the rainfall is only about twelve inches a year, little or no moisture falls after the middle of June until autumn. Then it is that the corn withers, the wheat shrivels, and the fruit trees lose their strength. But it is noticed that if a quantity of coarse sand be scattered over a bit of soil, no matter how dry the summer, there will always be beneath it moist earth. So it was argued that if the bottom of the plowed surface could be packed to retain the spring rains, and the top of the field could by frequent harrowing be kept in a sandlike state of fineness, the full value of the rainfall might that formerly rushed away toward the sea after every rain ceases, for the rains have gone into the ground where they fell. Ypsilanti City Elections. Monday was a day without a cloud and the roads were in good condition, but these were not sufficient to induce the voters to attend to one of their prime duties; they stayed at home. The city polled for mayor only 1181 votes of the 1489 in 1902, while the township gave only 93 of the 128 of the preceding year. The council will stand 7 democrats to 3 republicans, with a democratic mayor by a majority of 53. E. D. Holmes in the township 33 majority for

The Judson influence was the cause of Lister's defeat. While we have nothing to say against Mr. Creech personally, yet it is understood by the entis that he stands by Judson, and when he was elected chairman of the city committee they at once took the alarm. It was like a red rag before an enraged bovine, and only emphasizes the fact long known to the astute observer that no republican in the county can be elected while Mr. Judson is an ac-

Another Judson victory is seen in Ann Arbor, where Mr. Kempf, one of the best men in the city for mayor, was defeated, and the republican party likewise.

"THE HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX SYSTEM."

Few Facts of Interest Regarding the Most Perfectly A Constructed Ready=to=Wear Clothing in Existence = = =

One of the chief characteristics required of clothing to-day is style, which is obtained by a combination of graceful designs, fabrics that keep their shapes, and quality of tailoring. For years merchant tailors monopolized the production of really stylish garments, but little by little their territory was encroached upon until to-day "THE HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX SYSTEM" produces ready-to-wear garments, from overcoats to evening clothes, made with as much distinction and as beautifully finished as any product of the most exclusive custom tailor. Critical dressers everywhere pronounce "THE HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX SYSTEM" garments models of graceful lines and attractive appearance, and thousands of men whose tastes would naturally lead them to a high-priced tailor have found that they can obtain the same service and satisfaction in "Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes" that they do in the tailors' most expensive garments and at a saving of from 33 to 50 per cent.

Things to Remember About the Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes for Men.

Every garment turned out is absolutely hand tailored. The fabrics are better than those used in any other ready-to-wear garments in the market.

They insure Style to the wearer because the garments themselves possess Style. These garments may "wear out," but they never "wear out of shape." These garments are the most serious rivals that the fine enstom tailors ever The linings, buttons and trimmings are the best that money can buy. The Hart, Schaffner & Marx System garments are the highest priced readyto-wear garments on the market, because they are the best that have ever been manufactured ready-to-wear.

The utmost care regarding detail is used in the making of this celebrated apparel, and the high-quality standard is maintained at any cost. Every yard of goods is chemically tested and steamed before it is cut, and even the silk thread used in the construction of these garments must pass the close scrutiny of the severest tests. Effort, directed by intelligence and augmented by cleverness, produces individuality and distinctiveness in "HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX" clothing which cannot be surpassed, because they represent the methods of the custom tailor applied on a larger scale, and are made by craftspeople from the very finest of imported and domestic

A most important point in the production of these garments is that they are cut and made singly, and by hand, which means that they can follow even the slightest change of the modes-an impossibility when garments are cut in vast quantities, months in advance of the season, and by machines which operate with rigid precision, admitting of no variation.

C. S. WORTLEY & CO. have been appointed Ypsilanti's sole agent for this superior line, and WE GUARANTEE that the workmanship, style and material can only be equalled by the output of the highest priced custom tailors who charge from $25 to $50 for a suit or overcoat. Our prices:
